Saxion University of Applied Sciences is one of the largest institutions of higher education in the Netherlands, with over 22,000 students (and still growing!). Saxion has built a strong position in Dutch higher education and has come to be recognised as an important centre of expertise at regional, national and international level. Saxion offers education in nursing at bachelor and master level.

Bachelor programmes

Saxion offers the following bachelor programmes in the field of health care:

- Nursing
- Physiotherapy
- Podiatry
- Health Care Management (also available as Associate degree)
- Study route Health & Technology

Master programmes

Saxion offers three part-time master courses; Health Care & Social Work, Advanced Nursing Practise and Musculoskeletal. In cooperation with the Foundation for Mental Health Care Nurse Specialist a master course for Nurse Specialist in Mental Health Care is offered.

Research centre

Saxion Expertise Research Centre of Health, Social Work & Technology focuses on five research lines. These form a connection between bachelor and master programmes, and between education, research and the practice of health care.

- Active Ageing & Palliative Care
- Technology in Health & Social Work
- Community Care & Youth
- Health and Movement
- Mental Health Care: recovery-oriented care and client-empowerment

Saxion Knowledge Transfer

Saxion Knowledge Transfer bridges the gap between education and enterprises, institutions for Health care and other (non-) governmental organisations in our region. We organize trainings and refresher courses for paramedics and nurses such as general practitioner's assistance and operational management.
